PRIVATE EXPERIENCE / ENGLISH

Jere & Bosque Viejo

An extensive hike through the area surrounding Jere and Bosque Viejo, offering a look at the agricultural landscape of Toconao. The presence of water, shade, and cultivated crops illustrates a unique way of living in the desert.

Your itinerary

Starting in Toconao

A transfer brings us to the area surrounding the village. The guide introduces the route and distinguishes between public trails and agricultural land that requires permission.

Ravine and vegetation

The hike follows the accessible sections of Jere, allowing for the observation of water and its effects on the landscape. Stops along the way highlight the relationship between irrigation channels, vegetation, and land use.

Old Forest (Bosque Viejo)

We continue along the planned route to explore this area and take a break for a meal. Please note that the visit does not include entering orchards or participating in agricultural tasks without prior coordination.

Conclusion

We return to the pickup point and head back to San Pedro. This extended version differs from the shorter walk through Jere typically included in the Chaxa-Toconao circuit.
